

Essex's Mucilage Parlor Goes to the Bow-wows But The Inspector Is On Deck

By Rope Batchelder.

REPORTS were current that the grand old temple of justice had gone on the rocks, so yesterday a trip was made to put Essex Market Court back on the map pending our permanent return.

First, in the way of facts, Harry Spitz's official bar was found to be changed. No longer can the litigant stroll across the street for his snifter, nor can the lawyer entertain prospective clients with a happy smile at Harry's. The official mucilage parlor has gone to the dogs; it has been changed into a restaurant, and all you can get there is a beefsteak, or a bottle of Ginola, and the like. The like has been tested by Essex Market and rejected in favor of the water faucet. As a result, the entire court was found in melancholy mood.

Then again, it was the birthday of Eddie Sullivan, the veteran reporter. The party was celebrated with much eat. Eddie declared that he was forty-one years old, and had been a reporter for fifty-six years. An investigation committee, headed by Judge Sweetser, held an examination, and finding only two gray hairs, convicted Eddie of hyperbole, and elected him to lunch, Eddie said.

Bill Beirns, it seemed, having been out of the public eye for two weeks, had entered a nearby saloon in a fluster, as a protest against the Volstead Act. The ticket, including war tax, cost something like $100, and included plate glass windows and everything.

Jerry Creedon, who was formerly on the bridge, had gone to the West Side Court, and was declared A. W. O. L. by the Essex Market Post after a frenzied meeting. Phil Hosenthal, the clerk, had gone to Jefferson Market, and Bill Podolski had gone to the West Side, so there we were. Otherwise Essex Market was intact, and running true to form.

It seemed natural to have a summons for Police Inspector Boettler. Every so often some one calls the Inspector to Essex Market, just to break the monotony. On this occasion, a gentleman named Molaga, who was eating supper or breakfast at 1 A. M. in an east side restaurant, was arrested just Tuesday. While at the station house, the cops showed him a few points about the manly art of self-defense, according to his testimony. He said that the Inspector had handed him several for good luck and had then beaten him with a club.

For a time the argument was fiery, and the grand old temple sat up and took notice. The Inspector wasn't there, but that made no difference. Judge Sweetser heard the evidence that Mr. Molaga had been badly scrambled in the debate at the Clinton Street Station. Mr. Hogan, the Assistant District Attorney, then brought out the fact that Mr. Molaga had been convicted for complicity with narcotics, or something like that, and had been fined $200 two years ago.

TO RAISE NAVY PAY.

House Leaders Agree to Increase for Enlisted Men.

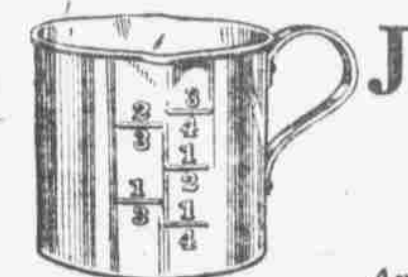

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Republican House leaders have agreed on early action on a naval pay increase bill providing increases from 20 to 50 per cent for enlisted men. No increases would be given to officers under the House measure. The programme, it was said, was adopted to overcome objection and speed action on the House measure. To attract enlisted men who have quit the navy within the last year, the House agreed to a bonus of four months' pay for those re-enlisting within six months after enactment of the pay bill.

We want you to have them. We want Jiffy-Jell served attractively.

It's Real Fruit

Jiffy-Jell means a real fruit dessert. It is not like the old-style gelatine dainties.

The flavors come in liquid form, in bottles. They are juices of crushed fruit concentrated.

Jiffy-Jell has a wealth of fruit flavor. We use half a pineapple, for instance, to flavor a pint dessert. The pineapples are crushed in Hawaii—fruit too ripe to ship.

It's real fruit, not mere flavor, that folks like and need.

Serve It Often

People need fruit daily. Jiffy-Jell supplies it at a trifling cost, and you make it in an instant.

A delicious serving of rare fruit-flavored dessert costs you less than one small apple.

Serve it often—three times weekly. Winter is when people need it. And every serving seems like a fruit-time dainty. Cut out this cup offer so you won't forget.

Judge Sweetser said that he would give out a warrant for a private citizen sooner than for an Inspector. A cop, he said, is sometimes necessary for the preservation of law and order. He refused to allow a complaint, and Inspector Boettler, the most summoned cop on the east side, was again at large. Everybody chuckled. There is no joke in Essex Market equal to an attempt to pinch the Inspector or the Police Commissioner. Some day it will subpoena the Mayor, just to see what happens. Or give a summons for the Governor, so that the Essex Market Post will be able to present the hand-painted, embroidered flag of the post to him.

To-morrow there will come an account of a trip to the Brooklyn court—one of them. There will be no jokes about baby carriages, bedrooms of New York or hayfields. It will be just an impartial and nice as though Brooklyn were in New Jersey or Westchester. Without prejudice, Brooklyn will be analyzed from the Essex Market, unbiased point of view. Friday Queens will have its little writup. Committees of welcome should be formed immediately.

Essex Market anxiously awaits the results of the trips to strange lands and promises that once the spotlight or publicity is turned again on it it will not fail. If necessary, the post will start something. And what could be sweeter?
